Kifayah Delivery & Shipping Terms

Bachat Bhi, Sahulat Bhi

Operational draft — approval required before launch.
This document sets out a proposed operating model for Kifayah in Pakistan. Delivery zones, fees, slot capacity, cut-off times, and failed-delivery charges below are planning assumptions, not a statement that these services are currently active. Before publication, Kifayah must validate them against its actual city coverage, warehouse locations, rider capacity, carrier contracts, and applicable law. Customer-facing checkout prices and confirmed order terms take precedence where required.

Document owner: Logistics & Fulfilment Operations Proposed effective date: 1 November 2026 Version: 1.0

1. Delivery Zones & Express vs. Standard Slots

1.1 Service-area model

Kifayah should serve only addresses that pass the live serviceability check at checkout. The dispatch system should assign each address to a fulfilment hub and a delivery zone using road distance, expected travel time, rider availability, and any temporary access restrictions. A postal code or city name alone must not be treated as confirmation of serviceability.

Proposed zone	Indicative road distance from hub	Service approach
Zone A — Core	0–5 km	Highest slot availability; standard and express where capacity allows.
Zone B — Near	Over 5–10 km	Standard slots; express only when dispatch capacity and route time permit.
Zone C — Extended	Over 10–15 km	Scheduled standard slots; cold-chain capacity must be confirmed.
Zone D — Outer	Over 15–20 km	Limited scheduled service; order accepted only after operational validation.
Outside service area	Over 20 km or restricted access	Not serviceable unless a separate hub or approved route is configured.

These are configurable distance bands, not guaranteed geographic coverage. Kifayah may use different hub-centred zones in Karachi or another launch city. The checkout must display the applicable zone and delivery charge before payment.

1.2 Standard delivery slots

Slot	Proposed customer window	Order cut-off / planning note
Morning	08:00–12:00	Orders placed by 20:00 the previous day, subject to capacity.
Afternoon	12:00–16:00	Orders placed by 10:00 on the delivery day, subject to capacity.
Evening	16:00–20:00	Orders placed by 14:00 on the delivery day, subject to capacity.

A slot is a delivery window, not an exact arrival appointment. Kifayah should send an order confirmation and, where supported, a dispatch notification with an estimated arrival window. Customers should rely on the slot confirmed at checkout rather than an unconfirmed preferred time.

1.3 Express delivery

- Proposed express promise: delivery within 90–120 minutes after order acceptance in eligible Zone A areas, only when the checkout explicitly offers and confirms it.
- Express orders are capacity-controlled and may be paused during severe weather, traffic disruption, peak demand, security restrictions, or cold-chain equipment shortages.
- Any express surcharge must be shown before the customer confirms the order. If Kifayah cannot meet the confirmed express commitment for reasons within its control, it should refund the express surcharge or offer another remedy consistent with the displayed checkout terms and applicable law.

- Express availability does not override safe handling, age/identity checks where legally required, or a customer's selected delivery instructions.

2. Free Shipping Thresholds & Flat Rate Matrix by Distance

2.1 Free-shipping threshold

Proposed promotion: standard delivery is free when the eligible merchandise subtotal is more than PKR 3,500 (i.e., PKR 3,500.01 or above). At exactly PKR 3,500, the order does not qualify under this strict threshold. The threshold is calculated after product discounts and before delivery fees, unless a promotion shown at checkout states otherwise. Taxes, tips, service fees, and excluded bulky or special-handling items should not be counted unless the checkout expressly says they qualify.

Free shipping applies to standard delivery only under this proposed model. Express fees, remote-area surcharges, special handling, and other clearly disclosed charges may remain payable. The checkout must state any exclusions before the order is placed.

2.2 Proposed standard delivery fee matrix

Road distance from assigned hub	Standard delivery fee	Operational note
0–5 km	PKR 150	Core zone
Over 5–10 km	PKR 200	Near zone
Over 10–15 km	PKR 275	Extended zone
Over 15–20 km	PKR 350	Outer zone; scheduled service only
Over 20 km	Not offered by default	Requires separate approved service area

Proposed express surcharge: PKR 250 in eligible areas, displayed separately from the standard delivery fee. Kifayah should configure one final customer-facing fee at checkout and avoid stacking duplicate distance charges.

2.3 Fee transparency and changes

- Show the delivery fee, express surcharge (if any), free-shipping eligibility, and any special-area charge in the order summary before payment.
- Do not increase a confirmed order's delivery fee after acceptance unless the customer expressly agrees to the change.
- Promotional thresholds and fees may change prospectively. The offer displayed and accepted at checkout governs the relevant order.
- If a delivery is split by Kifayah into multiple consignments, do not charge additional shipping without clear prior disclosure and customer consent where required.

3. Temperature-Controlled Cold Chain Protocols

3.1 Product segregation and packing

- Use clean, food-grade, insulated totes or thermal containers for chilled and frozen products. Totes should be intact, odour-free, dry, and sanitised between uses.
- Separate raw meat and seafood from ready-to-eat foods, bakery goods, produce, and other items to prevent cross-contamination. Use sealed, leak-resistant secondary packaging for raw animal products.
- Keep chilled, frozen, ambient, and non-food products in distinct compartments or containers. Do not pack chemicals or cleaning products with food.
- Use suitable coolant packs or other validated temperature-control methods where needed. Coolant must not directly contaminate food or damage packaging.
- Pack orders as close as practical to dispatch time and minimise the interval between cold storage and handover.

3.2 Temperature controls

Kifayah must establish product-specific safe temperature limits with its food-safety lead and applicable Pakistani requirements. As an operational starting point, chilled goods should generally be maintained at 0–5°C and frozen goods at -18°C or colder, unless a product specification or competent authority requires a different limit. These target ranges must be validated for the actual products and equipment before launch.

- Record temperatures at dispatch and at defined checks during transport using calibrated probes or data loggers appropriate to the route and product risk.
- Define maximum out-of-refrigeration exposure times in a written SOP. Escalate any temperature excursion; do not rely on smell or appearance alone to establish food safety.
- If safe temperature control cannot be maintained, stop dispatch or delivery, isolate affected goods, notify the quality lead, and arrange replacement or refund as appropriate.
- Never return potentially unsafe perishables to saleable inventory. Quarantine, document, and dispose of them under the approved food-safety procedure.

3.3 Rider and tote handling

- Riders must keep insulated totes closed except when loading or handing over an order and must not leave perishables unattended in direct sunlight or a parked vehicle.
- Do not place heavy items on eggs, soft produce, or fragile packaging. Secure containers to prevent tipping, crushing, and leakage.
- Totes should be inspected before each shift and cleaned/sanitised after use and immediately after any leak or contamination event.
- The handover should be prompt. If the customer is unavailable, follow the attendance and failed-delivery process in Section 4; do not leave chilled or frozen goods unattended without an approved safe-handover method.

3.4 Traceability and incident response

Each perishable order should be traceable to the picking/packing batch, dispatch time, assigned rider or carrier, and relevant temperature record where available. Suspected contamination, packaging failure, or temperature abuse must be escalated to the quality lead. Kifayah may hold related stock, trace affected orders, contact customers, and initiate withdrawal or recall actions when warranted.

4. Customer Attendance Rules, Failed Delivery Fees & Redelivery Escalation

4.1 Customer attendance and delivery instructions

- The customer or an authorised recipient should be available at the delivery address throughout the confirmed slot and keep the registered phone number reachable.
- Customers should provide accurate address details, building/block information, access instructions, and any safe handover directions before dispatch.
- A rider should make a reasonable attempt to contact the customer on arrival and allow a proposed 5-minute waiting period, subject to site safety and route constraints.
- Orders should be handed to the customer or an authorised recipient. A doorstep, security-desk, or neighbour handover is permitted only where the customer has clearly authorised it and the handover is safe and appropriate for the products.
- Perishables must not be left unattended in a corridor, outside a gate, in direct sunlight, or with an unauthorised person.

4.2 Failed delivery definition and first response

A delivery may be recorded as unsuccessful where the customer is unavailable after reasonable contact attempts, the address or access details are materially incorrect, access is refused, or the customer declines the order without a delivery fault attributable to Kifayah. The rider should record the time, contact attempts, and a concise reason code in the delivery system. A photograph or location record may be collected where lawful, proportionate, and respectful of privacy.

If the failure is caused by Kifayah, its rider, or its carrier (for example, the rider attends outside the confirmed slot without reasonable notice, brings the wrong order, or cannot complete delivery due to an internal dispatch error), the customer should not be charged a failed-delivery or redelivery fee.

4.3 Proposed failed-delivery and redelivery fee rules

Scenario	Proposed charge	Handling
First failed attempt due to customer unavailability / incorrect access details	No automatic fee on first attempt	Contact customer; offer rescheduling where feasible.
Second attempt requested after a customer-caused failed attempt	Actual disclosed redelivery fee, capped at the original standard delivery fee	Obtain customer confirmation before dispatch.
Return-to-hub / cancellation after dispatch due to customer refusal or no-show	Reasonable, pre-disclosed costs only, where lawful	Explain calculation; do not apply where failure is Kifayah's fault.
Failure caused by Kifayah or carrier	PKR 0	Prioritise redelivery or refund; no penalty to customer.

Any fee must be displayed in advance, be proportionate to the actual service impact, and comply with applicable consumer law. Kifayah should not impose a punitive or undisclosed fee. For COD orders, any permitted fee or cancellation amount must be clearly explained and agreed before the customer confirms a new delivery attempt.

4.4 Redelivery and escalation workflow

Stage	Action	Owner / target
1 — Arrival	Rider calls or messages customer; waits up to the proposed 5-minute grace period where safe.	Rider / immediately
2 — No response	Log attempt, time, and reason; contact dispatch support before leaving.	Rider / immediately
3 — Customer contact	Support contacts customer and offers available reschedule options.	Customer Support / target 15 minutes
4 — Perishable assessment	Quality/dispatch decides whether goods can remain within validated temperature controls or must be returned/quarantined.	Dispatch + QA / before redelivery decision
5 — Redelivery approval	Confirm new slot, address, and any disclosed lawful fee with customer.	Support / before dispatch
6 — Escalation	If no safe or feasible redelivery is available, arrange refund/cancellation under applicable order terms and law.	Operations Lead / same business day target

4.5 Customer-initiated changes and cancellations

- Customers should request an address or slot change before the order is dispatched. Changes after dispatch are subject to rider location, route capacity, and food-safety constraints.
- If Kifayah accepts a change that materially increases distance or requires a new delivery attempt, any additional fee must be disclosed and accepted before proceeding.
- Cancellation and refund eligibility depends on the order's preparation and dispatch status, the reason for cancellation, and applicable law. Kifayah must not use this shipping policy to remove mandatory consumer rights.

5. Service Disruptions, Communication & Accountability

- Severe weather, flooding, road closures, civil restrictions, security incidents, vehicle breakdowns, or other events may affect delivery. Kifayah should notify impacted customers promptly and offer the next feasible slot or an appropriate cancellation/refund option.
- The order-management system should preserve the confirmed slot, dispatch timestamp, delivery attempts, rider notes, customer communications, and any approved fee or refund.
- Customer support must be able to see live order status and escalate missed slots, temperature incidents, damaged goods, and repeated failed attempts to the relevant operations owner.
- Delivery performance should be reviewed using on-time delivery rate, first-attempt success rate, temperature-excursion rate, damage rate, redelivery rate, and customer complaint rate.

6. Customer Support & Policy Administration

Customers should use the support contact details published on Kifayah's official website, application, order confirmation, or receipt. Before this document is published, Kifayah must insert and test its customer-support telephone number, email address, operating hours, escalation contact, and service-area lookup.

Kifayah may revise delivery zones, slot availability, and fees prospectively. The applicable charge and delivery window must be shown at checkout before the customer places an order. Nothing in these terms limits rights or remedies that cannot lawfully be excluded under applicable Pakistani or provincial consumer-protection and food-safety requirements.
