Kifayah Return & Refund Policy

Tagline: Bachat Bhi, Sahulat Bhi

Policy owner: Kifayah Customer Experience & Quality Assurance Effective date: 1 November 2026 Applies to: Orders placed through Kifayah's website, application, or other Kifayah-authorised sales channels in Pakistan

Important legal note: This is a business-policy template, not a legal opinion. Before publication, Kifayah should have Pakistani counsel review it against the laws and regulations applicable in each province or territory in which it operates, its payment-provider agreements, and its actual delivery and cold-chain capabilities. Nothing in this policy limits a customer's rights under applicable law. Where applicable law provides a stronger protection or a longer mandatory period, the law prevails.

1. Executive Summary & Core Policy Scope

Kifayah aims to deliver safe, fresh, correctly described grocery products at fair prices. This policy explains how customers can report an issue, how Kifayah assesses claims, and the available remedies.

1.1 Scope

This policy applies to retail grocery orders purchased directly from Kifayah in Pakistan, including:

- Fresh produce, dairy and eggs, meat and seafood;
- Packaged groceries, staples, grains, spices and condiments;
- Bakery items, snacks and other eligible household grocery products.

It covers requests involving incorrect, missing, damaged, spoiled, unsafe, defective, or materially misdescribed products, as well as eligible change-of-mind returns for non-perishable packaged goods.

It does not replace product-specific safety instructions, statutory consumer rights, or any separate terms clearly disclosed at checkout.

1.2 Customer-first principles

Kifayah will:

1. Treat customer complaints respectfully and without discrimination.
2. Assess claims consistently using order records, product details, delivery information, and reasonable supporting evidence.
3. Prioritise food safety over recovery of returned goods.
4. Explain the outcome and remedy in clear language.
5. Avoid requiring a customer to return food that may be unsafe, contaminated, or unsuitable for handling.
6. Process approved refunds through the selected remedy within the service levels in Section 4, subject to payment-provider and banking timelines.

1.3 Key return windows

Product type / issue	Kifayah claim window
Fresh produce, dairy, eggs, meat, seafood and other chilled/frozen perishables	Within 24 hours of recorded delivery
Eligible sealed, non-perishable packaged goods	Within 7 calendar days of recorded delivery
Missing or incorrect items	Report as soon as possible, preferably within 24 hours

Product type / issue	Kifayah claim window
Food-safety concern, suspected contamination or serious adverse issue	Report immediately; Kifayah will assess even if the ordinary claim window has passed, subject to applicable law

The time limits above are Kifayah's standard operational claim windows. They do not extinguish rights that cannot lawfully be excluded or restricted.

1.4 Definitions

- Delivery time: The timestamp recorded in Kifayah's order or delivery system as the time the order was handed to the customer or their authorised recipient.
- Perishable item: A product requiring prompt consumption, refrigeration, freezing, or other controlled storage to maintain safety or quality.
- Packaged non-perishable item: A shelf-stable grocery product that does not ordinarily require refrigeration before opening.
- Claim: A customer request for replacement, refund, store credit, or investigation of an order issue.
- Business day: A day on which the relevant Kifayah customer-service and payment-processing operations are open, excluding public holidays and weekends.

2. Perishable vs. Non-Perishable Item SLA

2.1 Fresh and chilled/frozen perishables — 24 hours

Customers should inspect fresh produce, dairy, eggs, meat, seafood, bakery items with short shelf life, and chilled or frozen products promptly after delivery.

A claim should be submitted within 24 hours of delivery if an item is:

- Spoiled, rotten, sour, mouldy, or otherwise apparently unsafe;
- Delivered outside a safe temperature condition where this can reasonably be identified;
- Leaking, punctured, contaminated, or materially damaged;
- Significantly different from the product description or ordered quantity;
- Missing, substituted without required consent, or incorrectly supplied.

For meat, seafood, dairy, and frozen products, customers should keep the item appropriately chilled or frozen while the claim is reviewed, where it is safe to do so. Customers must not taste or consume a product suspected to be unsafe. Kifayah may ask for photographs, packaging details, batch/expiry information, or a short description. Do not delay reporting a serious safety concern while collecting evidence.

Because food safety and handling risks can make collection inappropriate, Kifayah may resolve a perishable-item claim using photographs and order records without requiring the product to be returned. Kifayah may arrange a safe collection only where appropriate.

2.2 Packaged non-perishable goods — 7 days

Eligible sealed, non-perishable packaged goods may be reported within 7 calendar days of delivery if they are:

- Incorrect or materially different from the ordered item;
- Damaged in transit or received with broken packaging or a broken seal;
- Expired at the time of delivery, or carrying an expiry/best-before date inconsistent with the product representation;

- Defective, contaminated, or otherwise not fit for the purpose represented.

For a change-of-mind request, the product must be unopened, unused, in its original packaging, with labels, accessories, and any included components intact. Kifayah may decline a discretionary change-of-mind return where the product is opened, used, tampered with, or cannot safely be resold, except where applicable law requires otherwise.

2.3 Items requiring special handling

- Meat and seafood: Report quality or temperature concerns within 24 hours. Do not consume a product suspected to be unsafe.
- Dairy and eggs: Report spoilage, leakage, breakage, or quality concerns within 24 hours.
- Frozen products: Report thawing, damaged seals, or signs of temperature abuse within 24 hours.
- Bakery products: Short-life bakery items are treated as perishable; shelf-stable packaged bakery snacks are treated as non-perishable where appropriate.
- Fresh produce: Natural variation in size, shape, and appearance is not by itself a defect, provided the product remains fresh, safe, and reasonably consistent with its description.

2.4 How to submit a claim

Customers should contact Kifayah through the support channel shown on the order confirmation or Kifayah's official website/application. The claim should include:

1. Order number and registered contact details;
2. Product name and quantity affected;
3. A short explanation of the issue and when it was noticed;
4. Clear photographs or video where reasonably available;
5. For packaged products, photographs of the seal, batch/lot number, and expiry/best-before date where relevant.

Kifayah may request additional information that is reasonably necessary to investigate the claim. A customer will not be required to provide evidence that is impossible or unreasonable to obtain.

3. Inspection & Quality Assurance Protocols Upon Delivery

3.1 Delivery handover

At handover, customers are encouraged to:

- Check the number of bags, visible package condition, and obvious damage;
- Confirm that chilled and frozen items are not visibly compromised;
- Check that fragile items, such as eggs, have not visibly broken;
- Compare high-value or easily confused items with the order summary.

A customer's signature, PIN, or delivery confirmation records receipt of the order; it does not waive rights relating to concealed defects, food safety, incorrect goods, or other rights protected by law.

3.2 Kifayah quality controls

Kifayah should maintain documented controls appropriate to the products it sells, including:

- Supplier approval and traceability records;

- Receiving checks for condition, packaging integrity, and date marking;
- Appropriate temperature monitoring and cold-chain handling for chilled/frozen goods;
- Separation of raw meat/seafood from ready-to-eat and other food items;
- Stock rotation using first-expiry-first-out (FEFO) practices where applicable;
- Clean, suitable storage and transport conditions;
- Batch/lot traceability and a documented process for product withdrawal or recall.

3.3 Claim inspection and decision

After a claim is received, Kifayah will:

1. Acknowledge the request through the customer's contact channel;
2. Verify the order, item, delivery timestamp, and quantity;
3. Review the customer's explanation and any supporting evidence;
4. Check relevant picking, packing, temperature, batch, supplier, and delivery records where available;
5. Determine whether a replacement, refund, store credit, collection, or further investigation is appropriate;
6. Communicate the decision and next steps.

Kifayah may conduct a supplier or internal quality investigation separately from the customer's remedy. The customer will not be required to wait for a supplier reimbursement decision before Kifayah resolves an approved claim.

3.4 Food-safety escalation

Any report of suspected contamination, foreign material, unusual odour, illness potentially associated with a product, or a temperature-control failure must be escalated to Kifayah's designated food-safety/quality lead.

Kifayah may quarantine related stock, suspend sales, trace affected batches, contact suppliers, and initiate a withdrawal or recall where warranted. Customers should stop using the affected product and follow any safety instructions provided by the relevant competent authority or Kifayah. For urgent medical concerns, customers should seek appropriate medical assistance.

4. Refund Mechanisms: Store Credit vs. Original Payment Method

Where a claim is approved, Kifayah will offer the remedy required by applicable law and, where legally permitted, the customer may choose from the following available options.

4.1 Store credit

- Store credit will be issued to the customer's Kifayah account or through another documented Kifayah-approved method.
- Kifayah's target processing time is within 1 business day after approval.
- The credit amount will equal the approved amount for the affected item(s), including any directly attributable delivery charge where appropriate.
- Store credit must clearly show its value, issue date, and any expiry or use conditions. Any expiry or restriction must be disclosed before the customer accepts it and must comply with applicable law.
- Store credit is not imposed as the only remedy where a refund to the original payment method is legally required or otherwise applicable.

4.2 Refund to original payment method

Customers may request a refund to the payment method used for the order, subject to applicable law and the capabilities of the payment channel.

Payment method	Kifayah processing target after approval
Credit/debit card	Initiate refund within 3–5 business days
JazzCash	Initiate refund within 3–5 business days
Easypaisa	Initiate refund within 3–5 business days
Cash on Delivery (COD)	Arrange an approved bank/mobile-wallet transfer or another mutually agreed lawful method within 3–5 business days after receiving verified payout details

The 3–5 business day period is Kifayah's target for initiating or processing the refund instruction after approval and receipt of any necessary verified payout details. The time for funds to appear in the customer's account may depend on the bank, card issuer, wallet provider, payment gateway, weekends, and public holidays. Kifayah will provide a transaction/reference number where one is available.

Kifayah will never ask a customer to disclose a PIN, password, one-time password (OTP), or full card security code to process a refund.

4.3 Partial refunds, delivery charges and bundles

- If only part of an order is affected, the refund will normally cover the affected quantity or item.
- If the issue makes the entire order unusable or the order cannot reasonably be separated, Kifayah will assess an appropriate full-order remedy.
- Delivery charges will be refunded where required by law or where the delivery failure or product issue reasonably justifies it.
- For a promotional bundle or multi-buy offer, the refund calculation will take account of the offer terms and the actual value of the affected goods, without depriving the customer of mandatory legal rights.

4.4 Replacements

Where stock is available and the customer agrees, Kifayah may provide a replacement instead of a refund. A replacement should be of the same product and quantity, or a clearly disclosed alternative accepted by the customer. No additional charge will be imposed for a replacement made to correct Kifayah's error or an approved quality issue.

4.5 Refund status and delays

Customers may request an update using the order number. If a refund is delayed beyond the stated target, Kifayah will check the payment reference and provide an explanation and an updated estimate. Kifayah will not describe a refund as completed until the relevant payment instruction has been successfully submitted or the funds have otherwise been issued.

5. Non-returnable Items & Fraud Prevention Clauses

5.1 Products generally not eligible for change-of-mind return

For hygiene, safety, and product-integrity reasons, the following are generally not eligible for discretionary change-of-mind returns once delivered:

- Fresh produce, meat, seafood, dairy, eggs, and other perishable food;

- Frozen or chilled foods;
- Opened or unsealed food products;
- Products whose safety or integrity may be affected by opening, use, or improper storage;
- Customised, made-to-order, or specially prepared items, where applicable.

This section does not exclude a customer's right to a remedy for an item that is unsafe, spoiled, defective, damaged, incorrect, expired at delivery, misdescribed, or otherwise covered by applicable law. Statutory rights prevail over this discretionary return restriction.

5.2 Fair fraud prevention

Kifayah may investigate claims where there are reasonable indicators of misuse, including:

- Repeated claims involving the same order, item, or delivery;
- Material inconsistencies between the claim and available order or delivery records;
- Altered, duplicated, or misleading supporting evidence;
- Evidence of tampering after delivery;
- Attempts to obtain multiple refunds or replacements for the same loss.

A claim will not be rejected solely because a customer has made previous legitimate claims. Kifayah will assess each case on its facts and maintain a fair, proportionate process.

5.3 Verification and account protection

Kifayah may verify the order using the registered phone number, order reference, and reasonable account-security checks. Kifayah will not request passwords, PINs, OTPs, or complete payment-card credentials. Customers should report suspected account misuse or unauthorised transactions promptly.

5.4 Misuse, abuse and lawful action

Where Kifayah has credible evidence of intentional fraud or abuse, it may decline the fraudulent portion of a claim, restrict the relevant account in a proportionate manner, preserve relevant records, and refer suspected unlawful conduct to the appropriate authority. Any action will be subject to applicable law and a documented review process. Kifayah will not use this clause to avoid legitimate consumer claims.

6. Customer Support, Records & Escalation

6.1 Contact channel

Customers should use the support details displayed on Kifayah's official website, application, order confirmation, or receipt. Kifayah must publish and maintain a working support email address, telephone/WhatsApp channel (if offered), and business correspondence address before this policy goes live.

6.2 Complaint records

Kifayah will maintain appropriate records of claims, evidence received, inspection findings, decisions, refunds, replacements, and escalations. Records will be retained only for legitimate operational, legal, accounting, and dispute-resolution purposes, with access limited to authorised personnel and handled in accordance with applicable privacy and data-protection requirements.

6.3 Escalation

If a customer disagrees with a decision, they may ask for a review by a customer-service supervisor or the designated complaints lead. This internal review does not prevent the customer from approaching a competent consumer-protection authority, regulator, payment provider, or court where available under applicable law.

7. Policy Administration & Legal Priority

Kifayah may update this policy to reflect operational changes or changes in law. The version applicable to an order will be made available to the customer, and material changes will be communicated through an appropriate channel.

If any provision is found unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue to apply to the extent permitted by law. Nothing in this policy excludes, restricts, or waives a consumer right or remedy that cannot lawfully be excluded, restricted, or waived.
